

Goswell Road / Mackay & Partners

21
Apr 2009
By Amber P

British practice Mackay & Partners shared with us this nice residential building in London, England. You can see some more images after the break.

This award winning residential development was created on a derelict site. Mackay + Partner's brief was to create a high density urban apartment building which effectively combined contemporary architecture with sustainable environmental concepts. We were eager to develop effective solutions for this high density building.

With a vacant 20,000 sq ft site in Islington we managed to achieve a density of 150 living units per hectare.

sixth floor plan

elevation

section